

A watercolor illustration of a forest scene. In the foreground, a small, fluffy yellow chick with large black eyes and a red beak stands on the ground. To its left is a large, pink, multi-petaled flower. In front of the chick are several small blueberries. The background consists of soft, green watercolor washes representing foliage and trees. A piece of torn, light-colored paper is layered over the center of the image, containing a quote in a dark red serif font. The overall style is soft and artistic.

En el corazón
de todos los inviernos vive
una primavera
palpitante, y
detrás de cada
noche, viene
una aurora
sonriente.

– Jalil Gibran